Sources

The data on this website are taken from four primary sources:

- IPEDS (Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System) files: these files provide data on fall term and 12-month enrollments, the distribution of students and faculty by race/ethnicity, the cost of attendance, student success measures, and basic institutional characteristics, such as location. Colleges report these data in response to annual surveys from the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES). These files are available on the IPEDS website
- Pell Grant files: these files provide the number of federal Pell Grant recipients and the total Pell Grant dollars awarded at each college.
- FISAP (Fiscal Operations Report and Application to Participate) files: these files provide the income distribution of all federal financial aid applicants and the 12-month undergraduate enrollment count. Colleges report these data to the Department of Education when applying to participate in the federal campus-based financial aid programs (Work-Study, Perkins loans, and Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants). Information about these programs is available on the Department of Education website.
- CDS (Common Data Set) files: these files provide data on undergraduate financial aid, including grants and the cumulative debt of graduates. The CDS data are provided voluntarily by colleges, and the questionnaire is used by publishers of college guides. The CDS data in College InSight is licensed from the Peterson's Undergraduate Financial Aid and Undergraduate Databases, © 2010 Peterson's, a Nelnet company. All rights reserved.

FA_DEP_N

Dependents - Total number

Estimated number of dependent students enrolled during the 12-month academic year. The unduplicated count of 12-month undergraduate enrollment, as reported on the FISAP, was multiplied by the percentage of undergraduates age 24 or younger (from IPEDS) to estimate the total enrollment age 24 or younger. The total number of dependent students was then estimated as 90% of this number for public 4-year and private nonprofit 4-year colleges, 50% for private for-profit 4-year colleges, 80% for public 2-year colleges and private nonprofit less-than-2-year colleges, 70% for private nonprofit 2-year colleges and public less-than-2-year colleges, 55% for private for-profit 2-year colleges, and 60% for private for-profit less-than-2-year colleges, based on averages from the 2008 National Postsecondary Student Aid Study.
