The Honorable Richard Shelby                                      The Honorable Patrick Leahy
Chairman                                                          Ranking Member
Senate Appropriations Committee                                  Senate Appropriations Committee

Dear Chairman Shelby and Ranking Member Leahy:

As you work toward a final spending agreement for fiscal year 2020, the undersigned organizations representing students, veterans, colleges, consumers, financial aid administrators, college access providers, unions, researchers, scholarship providers, education advocates, and civil rights advocates write to stress the critical importance of protecting and investing in the Pell Grant program. We greatly appreciate that the Senate's proposed Labor-HHS-Education spending bill includes a $135 increase to the maximum Pell award, which will ensure that the grant at least keeps pace with inflation.

However, we strongly urge you to oppose the overall Labor-HHS-Education spending allocation and the accompanying proposed $1.3 billion rescission from the Pell reserve fund and to instead fully retain all current Pell funds where they belong — in the Pell Grant program. A $1.3 billion cut would put much-needed investments to strengthen Pell further out of reach. This cut would also place the program at risk of future cuts to grant amounts or eligibility that would exacerbate student debt and limit access to higher education.

As you know, Pell Grants are the foundation of our national investment in higher education. They allow more than seven million low- and middle-income students — including nearly 60 percent of Black undergraduates and almost half of Latino undergraduates — to attend and complete college. College graduates have higher wages and lower unemployment rates than their peers without degrees, and Pell Grants are one of the keystones for growing a diverse, robust workforce and economy.

The current maximum Pell Grant already covers less than one-third of the cost of attending a four-year public college — the lowest share in more than 40 years. Pell Grant recipients today are more than twice as likely as other students to have student loans, and recipients who borrow graduate with over $4,500 more debt than their higher income peers.

At a time when a postsecondary credential or degree is an increasingly necessary gateway to a meaningful career, a strong Pell Grant is critical to ensuring that students from all financial backgrounds are able to participate and grow a strong, diverse economy. We therefore urge you to protect this critical program and reject the proposed $1.3 billion rescission without cutting funding from any other education program, and to provide adequate resources to support all of the important programs in this appropriations bill.

Sincerely,
